ESSAY ON THE HORSE

The following remarkable essay on the horse is said to be from the pen of "The horse is a very noble nundrupeu; but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by the bridle, and sadly the driver places his foots on the stirrup, and divides his lower limbs across the seddle, and drives his animal to the mead-ow. He has four legs; two are on the front side and two are afterwards. These are the weapons on which he tending those in the rear in a parallel direction toward his foe, but this he does only when in a vexatious mood. There is no animal like the horse. No sooner they see their guardian or mas-ter than they always cry for food, but
